The Power of Giving

HOW YOUR DONATIONS HAVE MADE A DIFFERENCE!

This issue of your Newsletter is a bit different; we are focusing on what we have done with your donations. Don't worry, they are still safely and permanently invested, unless you have instructed otherwise, and the interest and dividends on these donations are making a significant impact on our community through grant making.

This issue outlines the process, from start to finish, of how a grant award is typically made during the application cycle. Grantees must meet our criteria for best practices before we can recommend them for an award. We value the trust you have put in us to make prudent financial decisions in how we spend the funds that you have donated, and we work hard to make certain that we "get it right".

There are times when community needs happen outside of grant application cycles, and needs must be addressed in a timely manner. For those special circumstances we make "pro-active" grants. These are awards made by the Foundation to organizations with the capacity to address the specific need and bring about the desired result.

The bulk of this issue is dedicated to reporting grants awarded in 2019. Without being aware, you have probably seen one or more of these grants in action. Please know, it is your donations that made the difference. These grants could not have happened without you, they are part of your gift that keeps on giving!

On behalf of the Cadillac Area Community Foundation, we wish you, and your family, a joyous Holiday Season and a very Happy and Healthy New Year!

GRANTMAKING PROCESS:
APPLICATION THROUGH AWARD

“It is more difficult to give money away intelligently than to earn it in the first place.” - Andrew Carnegie

Giving away money for a good cause sounds great; but it is a very difficult thing to do. Unlike cutting a check and handing it over to the charity, our fiscal responsibility and oversight of the award makes certain that our involvement with the charity will continue until the grant program is completed and evaluated.

It all starts with an application, completed by the non-profit requesting the funds, and providing us a narrative about their proposed program. This includes such things as a budget specific to the funds requested, and an explanation as to how the grant fits in to their “big picture”. The history, mission, and Board of Directors of the applying organization are also important components of every application.

Once a completed application is sent to the Foundation, we are required to do our “due diligence”. This means that Foundation staff verify that the organization is who and what they say they are, and that they have a current, legal, non-profit status. The application is read to be certain it meets the geographic guidelines of the Foundation, and the budget is reviewed to be certain that it adds up, and it makes sense.

Once past those steps, the application is turned over to the appropriate committee for their review. Once out of committee, all applications recommended for a grant must be reviewed and approved by the Board of Trustees.

Some of the things that the committees look for is if the program is within the Foundations areas of interest that are published on our website; is the program duplicating a service that already exists in our community; is the program request within the budget of the Foundation; is there a true need in the community; does the program make good use of the requested dollars; and does the program have the ability to continue, without further financial investment from the Foundation, after the initial grant period.

Once a grant has final approval the necessary paperwork is sent to the grantee. The grant agreement lays out the terms of what is expected, what is permissible, and what is forbidden, in regards to the grant award.

Once the grantee program is completed, an evaluation is performed that helps determine the success, or lack thereof, of the program.

Grantmaking guidelines, applications, and deadlines are all available on our website at www.cadillacfoundation.org.
